By Paul Hardin

Last week I made a lot of political prognostications in this column. They caused a great deal of comment. Several fellows are guessing just the opposite of the predictions I made. But, that's all right. I've missed on all my elections that one more bad guess couldn't make any difference.

My wife, who is taking our vacation in Georgia, reports that fried chicken, roastin' ears, black-eyed peas, etc., all go to make up the menu these days in those parts. Sounds good!

I've read more nice things in the newspapers about A. O. Kanter's appointment as circuit judge than I've ever read about any one man. It seems that the appointment has met with the approval of all who know the Stuart man.

Florida of Clermont, Miss Florida newspaper editor in our office, and the official publication of the Florida Press Association. He told me that he had recommended dozens of newspapers from various sections of the United States during the past few weeks and that of them carried favorable comment about the recent National Anti-Defamation convention in Florida. Mr. Leachman had no way to tell how much free publicity the state gained through the convention and tour of the state. Hundreds of U. S. newspapers made the trip and all seem to have been favorably impressed with the welcome they received.

The delinquent tax list for the month of June has been published in the Daily News. After the office of publications the delinquent tax list for the month of June, 1941, is as follows:

Well, it's almost time for me to have a little luck and catch one of those big bass to enter in some of the contests being held. Maybe I'll be able to slip up on the blind side of a 11 pounder.

Seek Right of Way On Range Line Road

Action to acquire a 100-foot right of way for improving the Range Line Road from the Range Line Canal to the Palm Beach canal using condemnation proceedings if necessary, was authorized Monday by the County Commission.

Back from consulting about the matter at Tallahassee, Commissioner C. Y. Byrd said the state had modified its original request for 125 feet of right of way for the Range Line Road. It would now be a plan which would have necessitated removal of 126 buildings.

Byrd said the state now is asking a right of way extending 100 feet from the west side of the Range Line canal, permitting all permanent buildings overlapping that site to remain until the space is actually in need for road purposes. The 100 feet sought includes right of way occupied by the road at present, it was explained.

Commissioner Byrd said he had been assured no right of way will be acquired north of the Range Line Canal, but the improvement of the road south of the canal is feasible.

"This road," Byrd said, "is clearly designated as a farm-to-market road. It is not a four-lane highway set-up for the continuation of the farm road from Broward County."

The road serves a flourishing and rapidly developing farming area.

By Mr. Byrd's husband, seconded by Commissioner John Price, Jake Byrd, engineer, and Henry Lillian, engineer, were authorized to acquire the right of way.

Fort Lauderdale Invites Of Glades For 4th Week End

Elaborate Plans Being Made To Entertain Lake Region Folks

A group of five men from Fort Lauderdale are in the Lake Region yesterday extending invitations to people in this section to spend the Fourth of July week-end in the Broward county city. A. G. Shands, W. B. Gaywood, C. H. Allan, S. L. Drake and W. C. Dafford made up the party and called on many civic members and left publicity with them to be distributed during the next few days.

Members of the party said that elaborate plans are being perfected to make it one of the biggest affairs ever experienced in Lauderdale. A mammoth parade will be one of the features and a big barbecue will be given. Other features include a street dancing, coronation ball, bicycle races, golf and ocean bathing in the features of the celebration.

Hotels in the city will make special rates for citizens of this area and are promised something entertaining every minute of the time they are in Broward.

The group left hundreds of tickets to the barbecue at various points in the city. Tickets are to be given free to Glades residents who visit Lauderdale on this occasion.

Point, Bailey's, Denton's, and Chandler's will have the tickets in Florida. Garden's, Lett's, E. Jones and Slick Kirshman will have them in Belle Glade.

When a person signs one of the tickets and shows that he is from the Lake Region it automatically makes that person a guest of Fort Lauderdale. "If you are planning to be in the city for the Fourth, make your plans now to visit Fort Lauderdale."

Members of the Rotary club were also in the city. They were with other civic organizations and all feel that it was money well spent since the group had profited from the trip.

Alabama Governor Says Fish Are So Numerous In Gulf Off Baldwin Co. That They Cause Unusually High Tide

At this time of the year fish stories are always interesting. The Florida Times-Union carried a story the other day that sounded interesting to an ardent fan of the piscatorial pastime. It reproduced below:

What kind of advertising is Governor Dixon giving Alabama? What will Northern tourists think of the fish story here and the State Conservation Advisory Board have made public? Queries the Alabama Journal.

Well, we'd say offhand that the honorable governor and his advisory board members have let themselves in for something. At least that is the way it appears to one who has used all kinds of bait and hook without catching anything bigger than a five-cent now, say about a 15-pound bass.

Briefly, says The Journal, the story they are telling is that Alabama's lakes and streams are too full of fish. They are sitting there waiting to be caught—that is, the fish are "sitting there," not the Governor and his board.

"We have had to abolish the closed season on game fish because the waters are so full of them that they must be thinned out," the story continues. "To such lengths has conservation been carried in Alabama that we have so many fish we don't know what to do with them.

"Governor Graves recently spread a story around to the effect that his reason for going fishing down in Baldwin County (that county just across Florida) was that he had heard told the fish were so thick in the Gulf that they caused the tide to rise so high as to endanger his seaside cottage, and he felt he owed it as a duty to himself to go down there and catch some of them to save his home."

These fish stories may or may not have influence on tourist fishermen from other climes and other States. The Journal suggests, but it seems that the beneficiaries over at Auburn are backing up the Dixon story and that the situation is really serious with regard to excess fish.

The argument is that there is not sufficient food available for the quantities of fish being raised, and that their quality is likely to deteriorate because they will become stunted. Hence the effort to reduce the fish population to only such numbers as can find adequate feeding grounds.

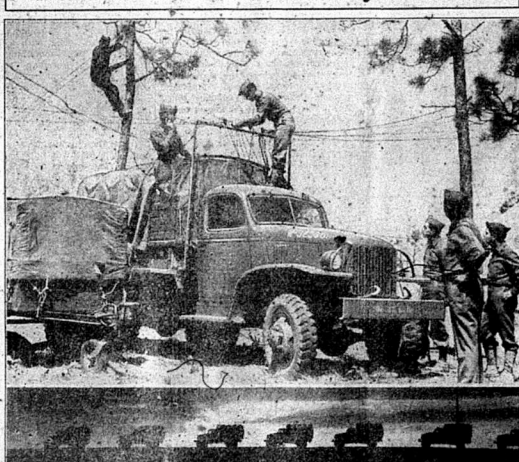

So, here it is at last—the fulfillment of the promise in the adage, "everything comes to him who waits." Through all the years, but exactly all of them, but a great, great many—were waiting for just such an opportunity as that promised by the Alabama Governor and his Conservation Board. Here we go to Alabama, and were to him and his if those fish are not "sitting there" waiting to be caught. A lot of men have disappeared because of lesser crimes.

MELVYN DOUGLAS REASONED ACTOR

Melvyn started out to be a writer and pretty soon he turned into an actor. He was born in Moscow, Georgia, and, according to his own description, "absorbed an education in Georgia, Nebraska, Tennessee and Toronto, Canada. He was in Chicago when he found out that he was not a writer but an actor. He immediately turned to William Owen, well known actor-producer in the Middle West, and let him be in the discovery. Owen was doing Shakespearean repertory and agreed with Douglas. He took him into his company.

After a season of triumph, Douglas went on to more modern fare with stock companies and, following two more seasons, on his Broadway opportunity. He appeared as Ace Wolfing in "A Free Soul," a part later portrayed by Clark Gable on the screen. This performance brought him at once, to the attention of Hollywood. However, he elected to remain on Broadway and starred in a series of hits, including "The Silver Cord," "Sunlight" and "Tonight or Never."

COMEDY MYSTERY

Mail Train is the newest of the famous Inspector Hornleigh series of entertaining detective stories on the screen.

Briefly the story concerns Inspector Hornleigh and his dumb Scotch Sergeant, sent to sleuth some army pilfering. They stumble on to a Fifth Column plot and capture a spy reading as a dentist. The chase takes them into the sort of adventures one could expect in a murder and ends up on a mail train with action bringing the yarn to a crash-ship finish.

All through the story there is some keenly flavored comedy with the clear uncomprehending Simon as an unwilling dentist, with a determined patient, and the cocky Barker posing as a history master in an evacuated school.

The cast, consisting of Gordon Barker, Alastair Sim, Phyllis Calvert, Edward Chapman, Charles Oliver and other well known players in this series register tip-top making which makes the picture an interesting evening entertainment. Showing Wed-Thurs, June 25-26 at Prince Theatre, Pabodie and at the Everglades Theatre, Belle Glade, Friday, June 27.

You can't beat nature. She keeps on working in spite of the sun.

Gladys George, celebrated comedienne, appearing with Letitia Young, Robert Preston, Edward Arnold and others in Frank Lloyd's spectacular frontier comedy production, "The Lady From Cheyenne." Showing Sun-Mon, June 22-23 at Everglades Theatre, Belle Glade and Prince Theatre, Pabodie, Tuesday, June 24th.

Said to be one of the screen's best hunters, Richard Dix proves the statement in "The Round Up," Showing Wed-Thurs, June 25-26 at Everglades Theatre, Belle Glade and Prince Theatre, Pabodie, Friday, June 27 at Prince, Pabodie.

"THE ROUND UP" PACKS ACTION AND ROMANCE

If you enjoy a real boom, action drama loaded with suspense, spectacle and something new in romance, don't miss "The Round Up." The picture is perfectly cast and backed up by a story that's full of surprises. Drama begins in the very first scene when Richard Dix, the prosperous rancher, is being married to lovely Patricia, Morison Preston Foster's one-time admirer of Patricia's, awakens in April the new bride, she had been in love with this reckless cowboy for years, but all this was over when he was reported killed in a gun fight.

The bewildered beauty remains torn between loyalty to her husband and desire for Foster whom she still loves. But in the end Foster sacrifices his life to save her during a battle between gun-running Indians and U. S. troops. When all the shooting is over and law and order once more restored, Don Wilson, Jack Baum's radio announcer, who plays the 500 lb. Sheriff, winds up in the arms of his comedy partner, Ruth Donnelly, a woman with harpical designs on the coy but panderous Sheriff.

They carried a cast of famous stars; a wild band of Apaches; herds of cattle and horses, rough and ready cowboys, Western music-makers and beautiful women. All these, and more, they handle together high up in the mile to film, the big-scale outdoor action show. Here's one time that we can bet the picture justified every-
